Becoming a Wiki Editor.

In order to avoid griefing and improper management of the Wiki and its Pages, only approved Players may become Wiki Editors.

Wiki Editors have ranks; as you get more trusted, you will be able to manage more and more of the Wiki. (Jr. Wiki Editor, Wiki Editor, and Sr. Wiki Editor.)

You can apply to become a Wiki Editor once you have surpassed 30 in-game Gameplay hours on the Server. (Can be checked via: `/playtime`)

Once you are ready, apply by opening a Support Ticket on the Discord with your IGN and your interest in becoming a Wiki Editor.

> Low-trust players may be dismissed even if they meet the 30-hour playtime requirement. This is fully up to Staff.

Rules of Being a Wiki Editor:

1. Do not randomly delete Pages, or make edits to them that makes them unreadable.
2. Stick to the theme, only cover topics that effect Roleplay on the Server.
3. Only finalize high-quality and accurate Pages.
4. Do not blatantly lie or make up information. (Get a source.)
5. Do not Troll or make "joke" pages. Remain serious, do not break/ruin the Roleplay.
6. Do not make biased pages, avoid biased language, always focus on sounding as neutral as possible. Your job is to describe, not inform or convince.
7. Do not involve real life politics in any way. It's preferred that comparing, or referring to real world situations is fully avoided.
8. Do not edit pages that don't need any changes or are off limits to you. (Especially the Home Page.)

Ignoring or breaking these rules would result in your Wiki Editor rights being revoked and depending on the severity you may also be fully banned from the server.

Only apply to become a Wiki Editor if you are passionate about documenting history.

Reporting incorrect information:

If as a regular Wiki reader you come across information that is not true, please either (in this order):

- Contact the person who last edited the Page.
- Leave a comment on the page politely pointing out the issue.
- Open a Support Ticket on our Discord.

> Do not argue about differences in opinion, unless you have proof that some information is incorrect, do not try correcting it.
>
> Wiki Editors have dedicated Discord channels for discussing each page. If you wish to discuss opinion based differences, consider becoming a Wiki Editor.
